[3] The band has released two studio albums through the record label Razor & amp; Tie; his first, Polyester Zeal, in 2015, and his second, Thread, on March 30, 2018. The band also released an EP titled Peel on March 22, 2019. History Red Sun Rising was formed in 2006 when Mike Protich and Ryan Williams, who used to be high school classmates, held a conversation about music at a gas station. In 2007, the first Red Sun Rising line-up was formed and they were playing local concerts. In 2011, Tyler Valenzza joined the group, bringing a new element to the group's sound. They built a follow-up preview of their self-released albums through their social media websites and were touring nationally in 2013. [4] In 2014, the band signed with Razor & amp; Tie records and released their album Polyester Zeal in August 2015, which debuted at #11 on the Billboard Hard Rock album chart. [5] In 2015, Tyler Valenzza left the band and was replaced by Dave McGarry, who was first announced as the new guitarist in a Facebook post. [6] Their singles The Otherside and Emotionless reached No. 1 on the mainstream rock chart, making them the first band since Trapt to reach No. 1 twice on their first album. [citation needed] His third single Amnesia reached Number 6 on the same list. The band often uses the hashtag #WeAreThread, said to be the name of the music genre they would like to represent. They explain that their influences are like canvas threads and believe they really can't be described as a particular genre. [7] Deathwish appeared in the 2018 video game Forza Horizon 4 on its rock radio station Horizon XS. [8] Red Sun Rising announced an indefinite hiatus on February 28, 2020. [3] Members Mike Protich, Dave McGarry and Pat Gerasia formed a new band The Violent, releasing a music video for their single Fly on the Wall on May 22, 2020. Recovered from Out of Ohio comes this band that is different to most mainstream rock acts out there. The interesting thing is that since I wrote the main rock words, you can write this right away. What if I had to tell you that Red Sun Rising is one of the most unique bands to have come on stage in years, with its unique stylistic approach to its composition, the diversity behind lyrical content, and some of the most sincere lyrics ever written in mainstream rock in years? On March 30, Red Sun Rising has released Thread through Razor & amp; Tie Records. Red Sun Rising is composed by Mike Protich on vocals, Ryan Williams on guitars, Tyler Valenzza on rhythm guitar, Ricky Miller on bass, and Pat Gerasia on drums. Together, Red Sun Rising has such a kind of old soul spirit about their music, where they're not afraid to be a little unconventional, unasswered to wear their emotions on their collective sleeves, all at once using their arrangements to get these pits of moss and good vibes going in their music. It is clear to see why they will be supporting Godsmack and Shinedown this summer because of this. The opening song, titled Fascination is a late 1990s rocker who dreams of Spacehog fans mixed with the Hey Man Nice Shot era of Guitar tones are disturbing as they build the early stage, while the rhythm section always moves forward so smoothly. The heart rises higher and sweeps like the vulture hunting its prey and prey succumb to the beauty and vulture that consumes them. Instrumental breakdown the guitar chords coupled by Williams and Valenzza is absolutely creepy. What a fantastic way to start the album. Thread provides another color for the tapestry that is Red Sun Rising with Left For Dead. Left For Dead teaches the listener to rise above critics and rise above the naysayers with his anthem of a choir. In the second verse, the guitars begin and make the pair of tones with Protich's voice perfectly. In this tapestry, I immediately realize the intricate and woven small parts that Red Sun Rising adds in music to turn it into a tapestry worthy of any emperor in any dynasty. The nice thing about this song is that it ends in a furious climax rather than whims outside that leaves a lasting impression on the listener. It makes you turn to your neighbor and go damn in Friday movie style. What's missing from so many rock songs is this memorable riff, the kind where you turn on the radio and immediately recognize the song. Red Sun Rising has this for you on the Deathwish track. The heart is so catchy that you'll get infected when listening first, and the riff is so bouncy, energetic, and it's memorable. The rhythm section that Miller on bass provides and Gerasia provides to the battery is tireless. It absolutely fits the thread that Red Sun Rising has woven into its tapestry. This particular thread adds colors and designs to make it stand out as crazy. I need to talk about the song Stealing Life. What a beautiful ballad, there's something about this band that's special. I mean this generation will let this band through because they're phenomenal with this heart and Protich absolutely belts and I see him commanding and owning a stage like him belt that song. The outro piano leaves the listener in contemplative state. What you'll get with Red Sun Rising is a fabric of many colors to make one of the most imaginative tapestries that's right for kings and queens around the world. You get diversity in arrangements, absolute candid voices that Protich provides that will make you cling to your chest in anguish and release all in the same breath, and where you are not afraid to try new approaches in your tapestry. Madness To Creation says they have gone completely crazy in a beautiful way in their creativity and rate this a 9 out of 10 stars!
